H. Rives Pollard

[illegible]

The initial number of the [illegible] Opinion, under its new management [illegible] M. Hanna, Mr. Pollard's associate [illegible] the late editor of the paper, [illegible] hitherto unpublished, [illegible] following history of the "fatal article." I was at dinner at the Ballard House [illegible] previous when a gentleman [illegible] table with me remarked, [illegible] elopement. I [illegible] whom it referred. The gentleman [illegible] the parties, and related all the [illegible] knowledge. Dinner over, I returned [illegible] Mr. Pollard was not there [illegible] residence on the Grove Road [illegible] lay on my desk [illegible] request to visit him at his house [illegible] had some important items [illegible] me. I visited him. I met him at the door of my rooms, as he seemed anxious that the servants should not overhear anything that might pass between us. He had some notes in his hand, and when I spoke of the case I had heard at the Ballard House, he remarked quickly: "Yes I have heard all about it, too, and I want you to take the address of this gentleman, go to him, get all the facts, and prepare an article up to it in the old style, remember." This was a phrase of his, used when he wished anything written in a peculiarly witty or sarcastic vein. He then gave me the notes he held in his hand.

I suggested that possibly it would be best to suppress names, as the parties stood high, and trouble might ensue. He angered at once, and replied: "The papers don't keep my name out when I get into difficulty; why should I suppress the names of these persons. My family is as good as theirs. No, put the names in full. I'm responsible for what goes in my paper."

Here the conversation dropped, or passed to other subjects. We came into the city together the next morning; in a few hours thereafter the article was in the hands of the printers. That night I was again at his residence, and heard the proof read. Again I suggested that as the name occurred in but one place it might be omitted without injury to the interest or point of the article. He declined, nor do I think he altered or erased a single word, but, on the contrary, expressed entire satisfaction with it.

As the week drew to its close the alleged elopement was the town topic in certain circles, and grew in exaggeration. It was hinted abroad that the Southern Opinion was preparing to ventilate the matter. On Wednesday late, or early Thursday morning, a friend of the Grant family visited the Opinion office. Mr. Pollard was at his country home; I was alone. This gentleman inquired whether such an article, based on the rumor afloat was to appear in the next issue. I told him I believed there would be a publication. He inquired further whether such publication could not be suppressed, saying, "Really, this is very dreadful! you are doing a family a very great wrong; beside there is not one particle of truth in the report." He then recounted the circumstances of the young lady's going away. I told him I was powerless to stop the publication of the smallest paragraph after it was once in type; that Mr. Pollard was editor, proprietor, and chief censor.

"Then," said he, "is there no way in which it can be stopped? Is there any pecuniary consideration which would induce you to forego the publication?"

With that the gentleman, on his own responsibility, as I have understood, offered to fill the space occupied by the article with an advertisement, for which he would pay $100 down. I told him I had no authority to negotiate; that he must see Mr. Pollard. "Then where can Mr. Pollard be found? I must see him at once," was his reply; and, receiving his address, he took a carriage and went out to the Grove Road residence. What conversation took place at that interview I never heard, except through a third party; but as I am the relater of facts within my own knowledge only, I omit even the substance. There were several subsequent interviews, however, between this gentleman and Mr. Pollard. The paper was usually put to press on Thursdays at 4 P. M., but on the afternoon of this day, when the forms were on the press, I received orders from Mr. Pollard to hold them back until Friday morning.

Late on Thursday evening there was another interview between the gentlemen representing the Grant family and Mr. Pollard, in the presence of the writer. The conversation again, as before, hinged on the possibility of suppressing the publication. The intermediator, at last, rising with impatience, said with emphasis, "Mr. Pollard, is there no way by which this can be prevented? I am a friend of the family, and as such, and do assure you, upon the honor of a gentleman, that the reports concerning its members are all of them false, utterly false." Mr. Pollard, rising, walked the floor of his sanctum, then resumed his seat and replied: "As for any pecuniary consideration that may be offered me, that is purely a matter of business. I put up my paper to sell. If Mr. Grant, or you as his representative, wish to purchase this edition of my paper, I will sell it to you; or I will sell a half interest in my paper, or I will sell [illegible] for I have wished for sometime to form another newspaper association in New York city. But as for selling my principle, that I will never do; there is not money enough to buy me." The gentleman remained silent, and Mr. Pollard resumed: "Or, if I publish this article this I am willing to do: I will open my columns to Mr. Grant, and I will print line for line and word for word whatever he may write in contradiction of the article."

The gentleman asked: "Mr. Pollard, can I see the article you have prepared for publication?" Mr. Pollard turned to me and said: "Have you any objection to Mr. [illegible] reading it?" I replied, "None in the least," and passed the proof sheet to him. He read it over carefully [illegible] I expected it would be [illegible] a word of truth in the whole [illegible] demurred, "How is it, Mr. [illegible] these stories are going about?" [illegible] made inquiries, and feel justified [illegible] public through my paper." Mr. [illegible] third or fourth time, related the circumstances of the case, adding, "Now, that is all there is in it."

Still another and last interview was had early on Friday morning between this same gentleman and Mr. Pollard. The former did not see him, but appearing at the door of the editorial room, delivered his message: "Mr. Pollard, your propositions are declined. I can do nothing further." Mr. Pollard responded, "Well, sir," and there the matter ended. The paper was at once put to press, and in it was the fatal article.

The paper appeared on Saturday morning, and the sensation it produced was very apparent. The day passed without any intimation from any friend of the Grant family that they would seek reparation in any manner, or avail themselves of the columns of the Opinion as a medium of correction.

Saturday Mr. Pollard remained in his [illegible] day, purposely, as he said, to receive any gentleman that might call as the spokesman of the Grant party. Unexpectedly to him, he was waited upon late in the afternoon of that day by several gentlemen—parties to an entirely different [illegible]—who felt themselves aggrieved by an article [illegible] in the same number of the Opinion. This interview was a stormy one, but it was finally adjourned to the next Monday, when it was amicably settled with all, save one of the parties. He Mr. Pollard had determined to challenge [illegible] next morning, but before even this [illegible] happened, H. Rivers Pollard had fallen by the hand of an unseen foe.

We clip the following from Mr. Hanna's account:

About 8 o'clock the vehicle was at the door, as ready to carry us into the city and to the office of the Opinion. The presentiment of trouble was strong in mind, I said, "Mr. Pollard, suppose you do not go into town to-day. I can supply the printers." "No," he said, "I must go in; besides I must see that man to-day."

The ride was no more eventful than many other rides we had taken together. Mr. [illegible] sat on the front seat with Mr. Rolfe [illegible] I behind him. Of conversation, save the usual remarks, there was none until the vehicle passed into the city on Main street. We passed [illegible] to place of the Rev. Dr. Hoge, [illegible] that Mrs. [illegible] was the residence of the [illegible] I inquired of Mr. Pollard: "Not Dr. Hoge?" I inquired. He said he had been ill, but was then convalescent. Mr. Rolfe said the party deceased was a female we were at the [illegible] The assassin's eye peering [illegible] is already fastened upon its mark, coming nigher and nigher, charmed with the circle of death. We alight—Mr. Pollard first, I after him.

One eye of the garreted assassin is closing; the other glances along the charged barrel; his forefinger presses the deadly trigger. Providence separates us by a little time and space—a moment and a few feet. Another second: there is a flash, a crisp, sharp and sudden, a crash of buckshot against the brick wall, and H. Rives Pollard lies dead, stretched at my feet.

Facts Concerning the Financial Condition of the South.

From the Scientific American.

The following facts concerning the financial condition of the South was furnished to us by the manager of a leading journal, published at Mobile, and are doubtless substantially correct.

During the war, and while the Confederate currency was abundant, the planters entirely paid up their debts.

For the two years subsequent to the war, but little capital was embarked in trade in the South, and hence but little credit could be extended to the planters, and they were forced to work through economically, with the little specie currency they quite generally had stored away. That they might live within themselves the attention of planters was largely directed to the growth of breadstuffs and meats, and more corn, wheat and bacon were made in the South than ever before.

During this present year a fair crop of cotton has been made, and generally made with provisions and feed of home growth, so that the planter has received but small advances and is not now in debt. From the high price of our staple, cotton, more money will be distributed in the South this year than before, not excepting the year of the great crop, 1860.

This year's cotton crop will net the planters of the South the immense sum of two hundred and fifty million dollars.

The crop of Mobile alone will bring not less than thirty million dollars to be distributed from that point.

The entire debt of the South abroad, and in the North and West, is less than fifty million dollars.

The vast sum of more than two hundred millions [illegible] will be loose money in circulation in the Cotton States.

The restoration of political quiet, following the determination of the Presidential election, will cause a confident, free use, circulation and expenditure of all this currency. In the old time the planter in the South used the gains of each year (in fact was generally a year ahead in debt to his factor) in the purchase of more negroes or more lands, and hence had but little or no money to expend for luxuries and the merchandise of trade.

Now there are no negroes to buy.

The principle of small and well cultivated plantations is accepted, and no planter wishes to buy more land.

The gains of the planter will now be invested in the purchase of improved farm implements, household furniture, articles of comfort and luxury, dry goods, clothing, books, sewing machines, pianos, and other musical instruments, etc.

The trade of the South will now be an exceedingly rich one. While the great West is now undergoing hard times incident to the low prices of breadstuffs the South will be prosperous in the wealth of her staple, now bringing the most profitable prices.

No part of the country to-day offers a better field for the enterprising merchant and manufacturer than the Cotton States. These views are plain and simple, and will present themselves with force to every shrewd observer at first glance.

The man who sees this condition of things aright, and takes immediate advantage by placing himself before the people of the South with his business properly advertised, cannot fail to secure a lucrative trade and large returns of profits for his expenditures.

The Gold Hill News' city reporter is responsible for the following:

Young Swiggles sat solitary and alone the other evening at a little table in the corner of a brewery saloon. One set of his fingers were sentimentally thrust through his disorderly hair, while the other slowly stroked the young and tender little yellow goatee adorning his chin. His gaze was pensive and dreamy, for he had industriously essayed to drown the cankered sorrow that was eating into his heart like a cabbage worm with copious drinks of beer, but all to no purpose. "Tain't no use," said he, dreamily shaking his befuddled head, "the [illegible] When [illegible] the human senses a feller's glass [illegible] relief, an' I can't get it even [illegible] "Where [illegible] rest?" yet [illegible]

Union Pacific Railroad

[illegible] Tribune [illegible]

[illegible] Message of the President of the United States [illegible] Congress reference was made to the report [illegible] W. [illegible] of Indiana, a [illegible] and practical engineer upon which he submitted to the Attorney General the question of authority under the law, to retain a part of the subsidy for the completion of the road. The report [illegible] there has been communicated to Congress and ordered to be printed. We [illegible] the closing pages of this report bearing upon the manner of construction [illegible] that region for main [illegible] The whole country has a deep interest in the completeness and future efficiency of the road [illegible] form the channel of our [illegible] with the Pacific seaboard, but [illegible] the world beyond.

[illegible] estimates by engineers of the cost of [illegible] the Railway show a profit to the [illegible] $ [illegible] to $6,000 per mile. If [illegible] $ [illegible] 000 or $6,000 [illegible] for ballasting, masonry, stone and iron bridges, rolling stock, shops, etc., it would [illegible] interests both of the company and Government.

The whole road has been constructed out of the Government subsidy and first mortgage bonds. The amount of stock subscribed and paid in is merely nominal. The company have contracted with themselves for building the road. The nominal stockholders are the real contractors, and they have kept back no part of the money obtained from the Government as a reserve fund, or working capital, but have pocketed every dollar of the subsidy and of the proceeds of the first mortgage bonds, less the cost of building the road. The clear profits which these nominal stockholders will bag is estimated by the Government Directors as not less than $16,000,000.

The strength of the railroad ring which is hounding Congress for subsidies for new lines of railway across the continent can be conceived by the enormous gains of the companies already subsidized. When the question is asked any of the Directors of the Pacific railway where they expect to obtain money to ballast and improve their road, build shops, rolling-mills, stone and iron bridges, etc., they reply "From the future net earnings of the road." But the public should know that it will require $7,000 of gross income per mile, for the whole eighteen hundred miles, to give a net income sufficient to equal the interest on the mortgage bonds and the Government subsidy bonds, or a total gross income of $13,000,000 per annum. Can we expect much more than this amount on so long a line of road, destitute of way business, except at a few points and long distances apart. No doubt the road will ultimately pay largely, but not at first. A large business presupposes a large increase of expense in rolling stock, shops, buildings, etc., to earn it; and for these expenses the company have not laid by a dollar of their enormous surplus, but have divided up all the profits among the "ring" and the stockholders and carried it off with them. We call the attention of Congress to this avaricious mismanagement, and inquire if the Government had not better withhold what bonds remain to be issued until the company agree to set them aside as a reserve fund for the future improvement of the road.

Professor Winlock, of Harvard University, reports that he has seen a volcano in active operation in the moon during the nights of December 1st and 2d. During the past year astronomers have differed in opinion as to the appearance of the crater Linnæus, marked on the best charts of the moon's surface till 1868. The destruction of this crater, if it should be the case, is stated to be the evidence of actually observed changes going on at the surface of the moon. The observations of Professor Winlock would seem to confirm the conclusions of other astronomers on this subject. The foreign journals announced that Professor J. H. Madler, of Bonn, who is celebrated on account of the moon charts prepared by himself, has written a letter on this subject. Madler has been for many years nearly blind, but the disappearance of the crater Linnæus interests him as well as other eminent astronomers.

Strange as it may seem, the first person to nominate Gen. Grant for the Presidency was a woman. It was the nurse who attended him in his earliest fancy. Here is her exact prediction: "Hoity toity, little blessed baby! Dancy! Dancy! Diddlum. Sweetest, biggest, brightest baby in the blessed land! Dancy! Sweet baby, kissy nursy, bless his booty eyes! Dancy, Dancy. He'll be—baby begins to whine. Yes the little darling, blessed baby! [illegible] He'll be President of the United States when he gets [illegible] Whahow! Ma, ma! Pa [illegible]." Then the rocking began. General Grant therefore was nominated for President from his cradle. Other claimants may stand aside.

During the examination of a witness as to the locality of the stairs in a house, the learned counsel asked him, "Which way did the stairs run?" The witness, who was a noted wag, replied, "One way they run up, and the other way they run down." The learned counsel wiped both eyes and took a look at the ceiling.

Why I Sing

[illegible]
Because [illegible] the [illegible]
Because [illegible] soul [illegible]

[illegible]

Because all [illegible] of human fate
With many a heart [illegible]
Because what [illegible] great
Less base [illegible] of my mind

Because above the changing skies
The spirit [illegible] good angels sing
Because wherever sunshine [illegible]
The winds and waves with music ring

Because amid earth's [illegible] noise
All happy things [illegible]
Give to their grateful [illegible] voice
Then why should I alone be dumb?

GOOD ADVICE—Bennett, of the New York Herald, disposes of the whole question of specie payments thus: "We are for immediate resumption of specie payments by every financier or philosopher who believes that the time has come for immediate resumption, and accordingly call upon Greeley and all others who claim for it to carry out their theory in practice. Let the Tribune employees demand their wages in coin immediately, and let all those who want instant resumption pay gold for what they use or to those having any claims upon them. That is the way to bring about immediate specie payments, and would test the honesty of the raving advocates of this theory." The beautiful theories now being aired about resumption are not intended to be put in practical operation first by their originators. They give the advice to others gratis, and, like sign posts, are always pointing the way they never go themselves.

MENTAL ACTIVITY.—If the water runneth it holdeth clear, sweet, and fresh but stagnation turneth it into a noisome puddle. If the air be fanned by the winds, it is pure and wholesome, but from being shut up, it groweth thick and putrid. If metals be employed, they abide smooth and splendid; but lay them up, and they soon contract rust. If the earth is labored with the culture it yieldeth corn; but lying neglected, it will be overgrown with bushes and thistles, and the better the soil is, the ranker weeds it will produce. All nature is upheld in its being, order, and shape by constant agitation; every creature is incessantly employed in action conformable to its designed use. In like manner, the preservation and improvement of the faculties depend on their constant exercise; to it God has annexed the best and most desirable reward—success to our undertaking, wealth, honor, wisdom, virtue, salvation Barrow.

The origin of the abbreviation "ye" which has puzzled most of us—is explained by a correspondent of Notes and Queries. "For some time," he says, "after the establishment of the English language the Anglo-Saxon letter representing 'th' continued in usage; in appearance it resembled 'y,' and its use in latter days may have been possibly confined to the particle in question. This Anglo-Saxon letter was not included in the first movable types for printing, and in MSS. had passed into the 'ye' it so greatly resembled. The printers copied the 'ye,' and it has continued up to the present time in occasional use."

The woman's paper soon to be published in San Francisco by the Female Typographical Society will be called "El Dorado." It will not be a woman's right paper in the common understanding of that term, but will claim for her the right to labor for an honest livelihood in any branch of art or science, or in any profession to which her talents may be best suited; and it will ask for her no advantage in the labor market over men—but only that like work shall receive like compensation and that woman shall have a fair trial; and if she fails in her competition in a fair race, then let her fail.

A CUTTING RETORT.—A gentleman walking near Oxford, was met by some students of the university, one of whom addressed him with—

"Good-morning, father Abraham."

"I am not father Abraham."

"Good-morning, father Isaac," said a second.

"I am not father Isaac," was the reply.

"Good-morning, father Jacob," said a third.

"I am neither Abraham, Isaac, nor Jacob, but Saul, son of Kish, who went out to seek his father's asses, and lo! I have found them."

A nephew of Sir Walter Scott—William Scott, son of Sir Walter's brother Daniel—is an inmate of the charitable "Home" of the St. Andrew's Society of Montreal. He came to Canada in 1828, was injured by an accident some years ago, and is in feeble health. On week days this nephew of the author of Waverley saws and splits firewood for the Home. He is 64 years of age.

The other day a handsome lady, a resident of Belleville (Ill.,) wishing to reach home from the depot, a bachelor banteringly offered to carry her home on a wheelbarrow. The maiden took him at his word, and the youth had to trundle out a wheelbarrow and carry her home, to the infinite amusement of a large crowd of people.

In New York all hotels having a yearly rental of $200 are taxed $5 on each $100. The Fifth Avenue pays $4,932 rental tax; the St. Nicholas, $4,810; the New York, $2,650, and the Hoffman, $1,152. The Fifth Avenue rents for $98,640 a year, and the St. Nicholas for $96,200.

E. A. Pollard has become reconciled to the two young Wises who shot at him at Baltimore last Spring, and wishes the suits against them dismissed. Sympathy for Pollard, in avenging the assassination of his brother, H. Rives Pollard, is the cause of the magnanimity.

A physician in New Orleans, on being inquired of concerning a friend, replied that he had been arrested for taking what did not belong to him, and what he had no business to meddle with. "By whom was he arrested, and what did he take?" "He was arrested by death, for taking the yellow fever."

The demi-monde of Paris recently had a grand ball. The invitations were printed on white satin, the envelops were scented, and the letters were gilt. Noblemen and millionaires attended, and one of the nymphs wore $200,000 worth of jewels.

John Stuart Mill spends much of his time in private at Avignon, devoted to his forthcoming work The Life of Buckle. He is generally to be found there during the fall and winter when public duties do not call him to London.

Parisians are degenerated in physique. They are stunted in growth and of muddy complexion, while their children are undersized, emaciated and pale. The great use of tobacco and alcohol is said to be the cause.

A West Virginian whipped his wife, recently, for unexampled extravagance in eating both butter and molasses on her bread.

NOTES.

Proposals must be to carry the mail with "celerity, certainty, and security," using the terms of the law, and they must be guaranteed by two responsible persons, certified to as such by a postmaster or judge of a court of record.

No pay will be made for trips not performed, and for each of such omissions not satisfactorily explained three times the pay of the trip may be deducted. For arrivals so far behind time as to break connections with depending mails, and not sufficiently excused, one fourth of the compensation for the trip is subject to forfeiture. Fines will be imposed, unless the delinquency be satisfactorily explained, from neglecting to take the mail from or into a postoffice, for suffering it to be injured, robbed, or lost, and for refusing after demand to convey the mail as frequently as the contractor runs, or is concerned in running vehicles on the route. The Postmaster General may annul the contract for disobeying the post office laws, or the instructions of the Department. He may alter the schedule of departures and arrivals, and also order an increase of service by allowing therefor a pro rata increase on the contract pay. He may also curtail or discontinue the service in whole or in part, at a pro rata decrease of pay, allowing one month's extra compensation on the amount of service dispensed with. Bids should be addressed to the "Second Assistant Postmaster General, superscribed "Proposals State of Oregon," and sent by mail.

For forms of proposal, &c, and other information, see advertisement of this date, in pamphlet form, at the principal post offices. ALEX W RANDALL, j11d1aw4w Postmaster General.

OF THE
Weekly Oregonian.
FOR 1869.
Nineteenth Volume!

Only $3.00 a Year.

By common consent, the OREGONIAN ranks first among the papers published in the Northwest. It is the oldest paper in the State, and its circulation and influence are greater than that of any other two papers combined. As a journal of enterprise in gathering the latest intelligence, and in giving in each issue a larger amount and greater variety of reading matter it has no competitor. It is thoroughly identified with this city and State and neighboring Territories, where the number of its readers and its influence are constantly increasing.

An unflinching advocate of sound Union principles, it at the same time pays special attention not only to MATTERS OF GENERAL INTEREST, but to everything of moment to the great

Agricultural, Manufacturing,
AND MINING INTERESTS,

And to the development of the resources and settlement of the Northwest.

Its columns contain a carefully prepared digest of

NEWS FROM ALL PARTS OF
Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana

TELEGRAMS FROM

are published as full as in the California journals, and put before our readers from ONE TO THREE DAYS BEFORE ANY OTHER PAPER IN THE STATE

Among its corps of writers are regular correspondents at New York and Washington City, men who, having lived in this State, are able to write on Eastern affairs, both politically and commercially from an Oregon standpoint

Its Literary and General Selections are from the best sources.

EXTENDED AND RELIABLE

are furnished every week, giving the Financial, Dry Goods, Hardware, and General Market Reports of Portland, and the latest reports by Telegraph of the San Francisco and New York markets. These reports are acknowledged to be the most accurate published in the State.

In every department it will be, as it has been, the foremost in the State in the field of journalism. Being firmly established, it will go forward with confidence, making new plans for improvement and usefulness, and hopes to gain increased circulation and support.

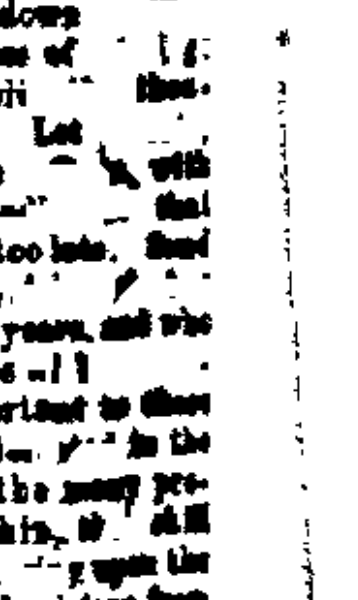
TO THE UNFORTUNATE.
NEW REMEDIES, NEWER
Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,



616 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency etc Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male, are there who are suffering out a[illegible] ence from the effects of secret indulgences, [illegible] absorbed into the system Look at their [illegible] ted and disfigured faces and their broken down [illegible] tions, disqualifying them for the happiness of [illegible] or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid [illegible] sands suffer until death closes the scene. Let guardians, friends attend to those who are [illegible] any of these horrible life-destroying [illegible] they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a phy[illegible] made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases [illegible] cury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, and to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing [illegible] in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful, and [illegible] strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self [illegible]. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth [illegible] to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combated by scientific medical measures, viz Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, [illegible] about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples, [illegible] eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania, and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained should apply immediately either in person or by letter and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating the disease which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of his complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage who are [illegible] under any of these fearful maladies should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible and will give to each patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country with full and plain directions for use. Address Dr. Gibbon, sent in registered letter or through Wells Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders, [illegible] who will dupe the unwary. Some of these [illegible] whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places [illegible] and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory, and you will [illegible] Medical Institutes in it, but you will [illegible] look at the Directory [illegible] the only way to avoid impostors [illegible] cost you nothing, and [illegible] for an advertising physician [illegible] bogus, there is no [illegible] you knew who and [illegible] deceive people by [illegible] extended patient's [illegible] persons who may [illegible] diseases that be [illegible]

Board of Delegates.—The Board of Delegates of Portland Fire Department met at the Council Chamber on Monday evening, Feb 1, 1869, pursuant to adjournment.

The Board was called to order by the President, Hamilton Boyd, and the roll was called by the Secretary, [illegible] Mills. Present: Messrs [illegible] Welling, Trevitt, Hallock, Heath, Moskowitz, Henriche, Towne, Boyd, Mills and Arnold, 11. Absent: Bothwell, Zieber and Bennett, 3.

On motion of Mr. Hallock the Board proceeded with the object of the meeting, to wit: The trial of James Bothwell for the charges preferred against him by Chief Engineer W. H. West, of disobedience of orders and disrespectful language used by him to the Chief Engineer at the fire on the morning of Jan. 5th, and that all parties in the complaint and charges be read, which was carried.

A communication was read by the secretary from the defendant, stating on account of severe illness of a member of his family that it would be utterly impossible for him to appear for trial at this time, which was ordered filed.

The complaint and charges against the defendant were then read by the secretary and the Board proceeded with the trial.

W. H. West, Chief Engineer, the complaining witness, was called and sworn on the part of the charges and interrogated by the members of the Board in turn at some length.

A number of witnesses were sworn and examined on the part of the prosecution.

James Bothwell was called to testify in his own behalf and failing to answer, being absent, an opportunity was given for other persons to come forward and testify in his behalf. No one responding, the Board proceeded to decide by ballot as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant on the charges separately. The vote stood guilty, unanimous—on both, and on motion to expel the defendant from the Department, the vote stood unanimous for expulsion. The Secretary was directed to notify the Company of which the defendant was a member of the action of the Board. After some other matters were disposed of adjourned.

The City Desert.—A few decayed old snags and scrawny shrubs still remain upon the City Desert—called by way of derision, the City Plaza. The effect they lend to the general appearance is artistic if not ornamental. They give it an antiquated air, and it is easy for the beholder to imagine that he is looking upon a scene which has lain out of doors ever since the "oldest inhabitant" was a boy with his first pair of boots. It is so interesting to wander around among, to look up and talk about ancient ruins. Some people expend a deal of money and traverse briny seas and tear their good clothes, with foreign brier thorns, merely to gratify a taste for such sights. We haven't got any of the genuine article here in Portland, or near here, but the City Desert affords a very passable substitute. There is no need for our folks to go abroad to look at ruins. The Plaza is dilapidated enough and dreary looking enough for all practical purposes and anybody may see it and not a cent to pay. It is a home production and as we advocate the policy of using the home article, we advise all ruins-hunters to save the expense of portmanteaus and umbrellas and guide books, and such, and expend their sight-seeing upon our own Plaza. Our City Fathers have sedulously pursued the let-alone policy with regard to it, but we trust we shall be pardoned for suggesting the slightest possible innovation. If a few old shirts were hung upon the branchless old stalks—supposed to have been once living trees—and if the fence were broken down in a few places, it would lend the Plaza an additional air of forlornity which could not fail to be appreciated. The expense of this improvement would be trifling, and we feel sure our liberal citizens would pay it without a murmur. Will our City Fathers take this into serious consideration? We wish it understood, however, that we merely suggest, and that we do not advise. There should be no rash haste about the matter.

Four Steamers a Month.—"We are informed," says the Commercial, "that Ben Holladay is going to give us four steamers a month, or enough to carry all our freight, thus keeping sailing vessels from our port." There will soon be need for more shipping than we now have, if all our produce is to go off, but we doubt if four or any other number of steamers would have the effect to keep sailing vessels away, nor would it be desirable. The sailing vessels usually carry freight at somewhat lower rates than the steamers and in all cases where there is not any particular hurry for the arrival at San Francisco, of consignments, the sailing vessels are very "handy things to have in the family." But we doubt if Ben Holladay intends to run so many as four steamers a month for any considerable length of time. The true policy of Portland merchants is to encourage the coming of as many sailing vessels as possible, consistent with the needs of the freighting interest.

To Tobacco Dealers.—The Internal Revenue law requires all dealers in tobacco, to return to the Assessor, on the 1st of each month, an inventory of unstamped stock on hand—where it exceeds twenty pounds. This law went into effect on the first of January last, on this coast. The dealers of this city made one return—on the 1st of January—but the assessor informs us that, on the 1st of this month, very few of them complied with the law. It is probable that, as the provision of the law is a new one, they have forgotten it. There is a penalty for the omission and it may be well enough for dealers to attend to the matter at once. The inventory is required every month until such time as all tobacco shall be stamped. Those having only stamped packages are, of course not required to furnish the inventory.

"Safety Pocket."—We have received a new invention, for sale by Mr. A. L. Johnson. It is called a "safety pocket." When fastened on the inside of the coat, it is impervious to all attacks or cuts of pickpockets. It is formed of wire and no knife can pierce it." So says the Vancouver Register. Now, by all the powers, of what use is that pocket to an editor? Who would ever think of cutting or otherwise getting into an editor's pocket in search of valuables? The pickpocket who would even prick a bubble worn as a pocket by an editor would be jeered out of the light-fingered fraternity, as a bigger fool than the original Thompson's colt. Mr. A. L. Johnson certainly does not understand the editorial situation. A "safety pocket," forsooth, to an editor! It is enough to make a horse laugh.

Hunting Party.—Four or five of the huntingers of Milwaukie and vicinity are preparing for a grand hunting expedition to be undertaken in a few days. They are going after large game, into the foot hills of the Cascade mountains. One of the party informs us that they will go provided with all sorts of guns, pistols, dogs, [illegible], blankets, pack saddles, etc., and he expects they will need all the wagons, carts, drays, trucks and pack mules in the country to bring in their spoils. We suspect they will spoil more grub than anything else.

Telegraphic.—In connection with the reported intention of the Telegraph Co. to withdraw their line from all British Columbia above Victoria, the Colonist says: "We learn that memorials are being signed at all the towns on the Mainland against the closing of the line by the Telegraph Company. A similar document is about to be put in circulation here. If we except the abolition of the postal routes, we can imagine no greater calamity that could befall every class in the country, than the exclusion of the Mainland from the benefits conferred by the telegraph."

U. S. Circuit Court—Deady, J.—The following proceedings were had in this Court yesterday:

John R. Lambert et al vs. L. M. Starr et al., ordered that the matter in controversy as to the taxes paid by the parties upon the property in question be referred to the Clerk as Master to take testimony and report.

[illegible] Flinn, Esq., of Albany, Linn county, was appointed Commissioner of this Court in place of George R. Helms, who declined to accept.

Adjourned until Monday next.

A Wet Dry Day.—The weather yesterday, was somewhat rainish—a decidedly wet day. But paradoxical as it may seem, it was also one of the dryest days of the winter—we mean in the news items sense. There was positive nothing going on except the people who were constantly going in—to the saloons, on account of having wet coats to their backs and dry coats to their stomachs. We never saw so many people wet outside and dry inside and that is about all we did see.

Rough Weather.—There has been an unusual amount of rough weather, this winter, off the coast of Oregon, though it has been unusually mild so far as temperature is concerned. The Brewster arrived off the bar a week ago last Saturday and was compelled to lay off for four days in consequence of severe northwest winds. Other vessels and the steamers have frequently been delayed by similar weather, both in coming in and going out.

Life Insurance.—The Mutual Life Insurance Co. advertise this morning that they will hereafter issue policies payable either in coin or currency, at the option of the insured at the time of taking out policy. This, we believe, is a new feature, the business having heretofore as we understand it, been conducted on a currency basis and is probably introduced to accommodate the business of the company to the prevailing currency of the country.

Lafont & Ward's Minstrels.—There was a pretty good house out last evening at Oro Fino Theater to see and hear this minstrel troupe, in songs, dances, character acts and ethiopian extravaganzas. Lafont's bird imitations are exceedingly good, and the entire performance is far better than the average of such shows. They will give another performance to-morrow night with a new programme and at reduced prices.

Passengers for San Francisco.—The following is the list of passengers per steamship Continental, for San Francisco, yesterday: [illegible] Rellogg, H Hyman, E A Hawley, Geo W Wass, Mrs Fernedy, H E Webster and boy, A M P Watson, S Frndeuen, Dr R Kuhler, Dr J Schwab, Thomas Crillin, Mrs Becky Hughes, Mrs Mary Hughes, P C Gabert, Mrs E R Cheadle, Mrs O A Smith and boy, and fifteen in the steerage.

Removal.—Messrs J. Kraemer & Co., successors to Wiberg & Strowbridge, have recently removed from No. 47 Front street, to the building recently occupied by Corbitt & Macleay. They have lately received large accessions to their stock of boots and shoes and can now answer all demands of their numerous customers at [illegible] reasonable prices.

Accident.—A man at work upon the New Columbian wharf yesterday morning was seriously hurt by a bottle thrown out of a door [illegible] above. The bottle struck him on the head and being broken by the concussion the fragments of the bottle [illegible] terrible, rendering it necessary to call in a surgeon.

County Court.—The February term of the County Court opened yesterday. The business transacted was confined mostly to orders for entry of judgment by default in a few cases.

Lost.—A few days since a small oval gold enameled locket was dropped on the street. It contained two pictures—a lady and child. The finder will confer a favor by leaving it at this office.

Relief Society.—The Ladies Relief Society will meet at the usual place to-day at half past two o'clock.

PIRATES
SAIL UNDER FALSE COLORS!!

THE BEST EVIDENCE OF THE VALUE OF AN article may be found in the fact of its having numerous imitators. Every fine poem has its parodies, every meritorious literary work is subject to plagiarisms, every successful play has been burlesqued, every honest man has his detractors, every genuine dollar has been counterfeited, and every valuable medicinal preparation has its vile imitations. The proprietors of have encountered the usual experience in this respect. Such has been the success of this sterling preparation, that all inferior articles of the kind have virtually been driven from the market. The concoctors of these beverages, finding that this new Tonic has exactly met the public want, and that no further demand exists for inferior preparations, have resorted to the dishonest expedient of imitating either the name or the style of label, both of which have been duly secured by the laws of the State to the proprietors of the I. X. L. Bitters.

In justice to ourselves, as well as to the public who may be deceived by these nefarious practices, we hereby notify all parties guilty of infringement on our rights as well as those who have been buying up our old bottles in order to palm off their own nostrums as the genuine article, that they will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

For the further protection of consumers, we would state that we never sell our Bitters in bulk, but always by the case. Look for our Trade Mark on every bottle, and in ordering the article otherwise than direct from us, be sure to order "Dr. Henley's Wild Grape Root I X L Bitters," and do not allow yourself to be imposed upon with an inferior article.

TUESDAY MORNING, FEB. 2, 1869

Arkansas

We have often shown that the telegrams from the South which report outrages by the [illegible] employed in maintaining the State governments are from rebel sources and unworthy of credence. The same is generally true of outrages reported as being perpetrated by the negroes. For several weeks the telegraph has been furnishing reports, mostly on the authority of the Memphis Avalanche, a most rabid rebel paper, that the militia in Arkansas were doing terrible deeds of pillage and murder. We now have statements by mail which give very different accounts. Hon. Thomas Bolles, Representative in Congress from the Third District of Arkansas says that the telegraphic reports have been sent by agents of the Associated Press, who are either rebels or working in the rebel interest, and that the Associated Press would not transmit a telegram in the interest of Union men. These reports falsely represent the militia as predatory, prowling bands, composed of negroes and governed by irresponsible persons, whose business it is to devastate the State, plundering and murdering as they go. This is all rebel falsehood. The truth is as follows. In August, September and October last, about twenty leading Republicans of the State were either murdered or severely wounded. Among the victims were the Hon. James Hinds, the Hon. A. M. Johnson, Captain Mason, the Hon. Joseph Brooks and the Hon. Stephen Wheeler. In addition to these, over two hundred colored men were brutally murdered for political reasons. Notwithstanding these outrages were known throughout the State, the agents of the Associated Press did not give the facts to the public, nor did the special correspondent of the Memphis Avalanche have a word to say on the subject, except in the case of the murder of the Hon. James Hinds and the wounding of the Hon. Joseph Brooks, which was grossly misrepresented. Let it be remembered that previous to calling out the militia not a single case of retaliation on the part of the Union men had ever been charged.

The murderers in many cases were known and were allowed to live in perfect security in the communities in which the outrages were committed. If attempts were made to deal with them by the civil law, the officers were overpowered, killed, or driven off by the rebel Democracy. The most notorious of these assassins rode over the country making speeches by invitation, in which they boasted of their outrages. In every part of the State leading rebels were continually counseling opposition to the State Government and the laws made under it. Governor Clayton's office was daily besieged with refugees, begging protection from the State in their rights under its laws. Thus besieged, Governor Clayton made use of the means in his hands to astertain the truth, and when fully convinced that civil law could not be enforced in some counties, he declared martial law and called out the militia, in which he was sustained by the unanimous vote of the Legislature.

The only aim has been to uphold the State government, enforce the laws and protect all classes of persons. A correspondent of the New York Tribune writes from Little Rock "Now for the first time the authority of the State is respected and enforced. There is little doubt that the hope was entertained by the enemies of the State government, that, unable to suppress the terrible lawlessness so prevalent, the State would be forced to call upon the General Government for assistance, and thus prove reconstruction practically a nullity. Finding themselves crowded to the wall, however, through the determined exertions of Governor Clayton, the hope now is, by a terrible hue and cry of militia outrages, to bring about a collision between the authorities of the State and General Government. In this, as in their former desires, they will find themselves mistaken." It appears that General Grant, discrediting the rebel reports, sent two membess of his staff to Arkansas to ascertain the facts, and the result is that Gov. Clayton is supported in enforcing the laws.

FORMIDABLE LIST. The various schemes before Congress whereby it is hoped to get money out of the Treasury make a very formidable list. Some of the principal ones are the Pacific railroads, the Sutro tunnel; various steamship and navigation lines, the Osage land treaty; claims for iron-clads left on contractors' hands at the end of the war; air-line railroads; Indian claims, land grants; the Mississppi levees; the Niagara ship canal; the Darien ship canal, additional navy yards; more mints; the New Idria quicksilver claim; the Tehauntapec transit; pay for Alta Vela; purchase of St. Thomas, Lower California and sundry Mexican provinces, claims for property destroyed by our armies during the war, etc., etc. This list is growing every day.

SECOND ATTACK OF THE SMALL POX.—It is no new thing for variola to attack persons a second time. Jenner refers to nineteen such cases among the nobility of England more than half a century since. Upwards of two hundred such cases were reported in London in 1851. In Wurtemburg one hundred and forty-three cases were recorded, of which twenty-eight died. The proportion after inoculation is still larger. One instance is on record of five children having been inoculated with small pox successfully, four of whom subsequently contracted the disease, which was fatal to one of the number. An English surgeon is mentioned as having always an attack of small pox after attending a patient with the disease.

VIRGINIA'S PUBLIC GUARD.—The so called public guard of Virginia has been broken up by General Stoneman. It was born of the fright created in that State almost seventy years ago by the famous Nat Turner rising, and has cost the State an average of fifty thousand dollars per year since 1800. Of late its whole business has been to stand guard in the public square and about the capitol buildings of [illegible] and the little squad was ironically spoken of as the standing army of Virginia. The ex-rebels mourn but tax payers generally [illegible] be gratified.

LOVE FOR THE CONSTITUTION.—The exemption of Government securities from taxation is guaranteed by the Constitution and is for the public interest and not for the benefit of the bondholders. Yet many who profess to hold the Constitution as sacred, and even presume to monopolize the respect and veneration due to that instrument, continue to assert that the bonds ought to be taxed, and that their exemption is a "Radical outrage."

GREENBACKS.—It having been decided that greenbacks are exempt from local taxation, it is supposed that they will become valuable about the time the Assessor comes around, for many will buy greenbacks with their gold before making out their lists and swearing to their property, and will then sell them again.

THE LATEST ARGUMENT.—The Democratic press has started a new argument in favor of a special session. They say the Republicans need not fear it, for they have power enough in the Senate, with the aid of the Governor's veto, to check any outrageous or revolutionary legislation which the Democrats might attempt. This, certainly, is reassuring. It is the same argument which Seymour used to induce the people to elect him President. He told them that they need not fear anything for in case of his election there was a Republican Senate to hold him in check and save the country from revolution. But those who are using this style of argument for the purpose of reconciling the Republicans to an extra session of the Legislature unfortunately have not truth on their side as their late candidate for President had when he invented the argument. The State Senate is composed of twenty-two members. Of these the Republicans have one in Multnomah, one in Clackamas, two in Marion, two in Douglas, one in Washington, and one in Yamhill—eight in all. But Senator Adams of Yamhill is not in the State. He went to California some months ago, and is not expected to return for some months to come. This reduces the number of Republican members to seven, or less than one-third, so that the Republicans would not be strong enough to sustain the Governor's veto of the violent and unconstitutional measures which the Democratic majority would be sure to pass. The Herald will therefore see that its supposed convincing argument in favor of an extra session is not a valid one. There would not be Republicans enough in the Senate for the Herald to rely upon as a final means of saving the State from the outrageous measures of the Democratic majority. The Republican members would not disappoint the trust reposed in them by the Herald; they would do their best to keep matters straight, but they would be too few in number to accomplish the desired object. If that paper desires the State to be perfectly safe it should try to get one or two more Republicans in the Senate. Then it would have a sure basis to rest upon.

THE NEW YORK FRAUDS.—Congress has been having a committee at work in New York investigating pretended election frauds. The witnesses testifying are the very hardest cases in the city, and several of them were arrested, while before the committee, for crime. The dispatches say the committee claims to have evidence of astounding frauds and we do not doubt it from the character of the men they examined as witnesses. We have no sympathy with any party that resorts to frauds to carry its purposes. We should be glad if, at all times, parties who resort to corrupt means to carry elections could be brought to justice and severely punished, but it will be difficult for a Congressional Committee to make the American people believe stories of astounding frauds based upon the evidence of New York thieves and cut-throats.—San Francisco Dispatch.

Something of this sort has appeared in most of the Democratic papers of Oregon. They should not be so hard upon the "thieves and cut-throats" of New York, for are they not all good Democrats, and are they not increasing in numbers year by year, until they now give 70,000 majority for the Democratic candidates?

It is a great pity that our astute Executive vetoed the China bill passed by the last Legislature. We thought so then, we are still of the same opinion. If the bill had become a law then all these troubles, that have since come to the surface, about Chinese labor, would have been avoided, for the intention and effect of the law was to drive these long-cued, rat-eating idolators and barbarians out of the State.

This is from the Albany Democrat. It is a fair specimen of the ignorance of that class of editors. They do not know that the proposed tax could not be collected, they are not aware that a State cannot prevent the introduction of any class of foreigners, or drive them out after they have come in. They seem to be incapable of acquiring a knowledge of the plainest principles of the Constitution or the long established policy of the Government. All they can do is to go on with their everlasting gibberish about "rat-eating idolators" and descant upon the marry-your-daughter-to-a-nigger philosophy.

THE "RINGS."—The New York Times of Jan. 9th says: "Our information is that a good deal of consternation exists among the lobby and in the Rings in consequence of what Gen. Grant has actually said, to say nothing of the reports of his views, concerning economy in legislation. The sober reality of the situation is beginning to be understood and the Rings, like the rebels when Grant took matters into his own hands, are commencing to have a "realizing sense" that something is going to be done. Complaints of hardship and injustice will doubtless be put up, but no reflecting man will withhold his support from a President who steadily discountenances the appropriation of money to projects of less importance than the keeping of the national faith and the emancipation of the country from the burden of taxation."

SORROW.—The Eugene Guard, with a gush of sympathy, publishes an article from a Southern Democratic paper, in which it is sorrowfully stated that when "the sun of the Confederacy set in blood and ruin the hopes of myriads of freemen were crushed in that moment of sorrow and despair, for, all that had been gained in the year of '76 was lost in the war of '61." It was, indeed, terribly severe, and none felt it more deeply than the Long Tom Democracy. The same Southern paper, speaking of Congress, says: "Surely Justice must awaken, at last, and the wrongdoers be hurled from the execution of their wicked schemes and outrageous violations of the Constitution." Only see what great champions of the Constitution these disarmed rebels and the Long Tom Democracy have become!

STATE ITEMS

The Guard has been somewhat agitated about a report that a "hurdy gurdy dance house" was to be established at Eugene City, but learns that the report is unfounded.

Up to this time there has been no snow in the Wallamet valley, and very little on the hills within sight of the valley. There has been no freezing at all. We believe this is the mildest winter ever known in Oregon.

The Eugene Journal says: We hear it reported that another saloon is to be opened in this place in a few days. This one will make five saloons, besides a brewery and distillery, which will probably both be running before long.

Butter is very scarce in Oregon and commands unusually high prices. It retails in Portland for 62½ cents. In the towns up the valley there is almost no butter at all. This is absolute improvidence. We see little change for the better in this respect since fifteen years ago.

An Albany paper explains the cause of the reduction of the assessment of property in Linn county. It says that farming lands in that county have been rated too high heretofore—higher in proportion than in any other county in the State. A reduction has been made of from $3 to $10 per acre, which has largely diminished the amount of property returned on the assessment roll. The reduction was made in order that Linn county might not pay so much State tax. If this sort of thing becomes common, it may be necessary to provide a remedy.

DATES TO JANUARY 30.

Congressional

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—In the Senate the President presented the credentials of [illegible] Senator [illegible] of Pennsylvania.

Frelinghuysen, from the Naval Committee, reported [illegible] in relation to the appointment of [illegible] in the navy from the civil service [illegible] States, which was passed.

[illegible] for the [illegible] telegraph between New York, Boston, Baltimore and Washington, under the control of the Post Office Department. Referred to the [illegible] Committee.

M[illegible] moved to take up the McGarrahan bill, which after debate was carried 27 to 18. Mr. [illegible] a message to the House [illegible] with the [illegible] carried.

[illegible] the Constitutional Amendment [illegible] introduced by Hen[illegible]. [illegible]

[illegible] No State shall deny or abridge the right [illegible] to vote or hold office on account of race, color or previous condition.

Section 2. Congress shall have power to enforce this [illegible] by appropriate legislation.

The Judiciary Committee reported as a substitute the following:

[illegible] of the United States to vote [illegible] abridged by the United States, or any State, on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude.

Stewart [illegible] the Senate, advocating the committee's substitute, which was then adopted.

Buckalew offered an additional section requiring the Presidential electors to be chosen by the people instead of leaving it to the legislatures to direct how they shall be chosen, also authorizing Congress to provide the mode of their selection by the people. After discussion, in which the amendment was generally [illegible], Buckalew withdrew his amendment and then introduced it as a [illegible] which was referred.

[illegible] proposing that all [illegible] amendments shall be submitted directly to the people.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Quite a lengthy debate ensued and several Senators expressed their views on the equal suffrage question. Davis finally withdrew his amendment.

Henderson, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, reported the House bill transferring the management of Indian affairs to the War Department, with a substitute creating a Department of Indian Affairs.

The Senate went into extra session and soon afterwards adjourned.

In the House, the Committee on Appropriations reported an appropriation bill. It was referred to the Committee on the Whole.

[illegible] reported the same resolution he offered on Monday, in relation to the admission of Georgia. The previous question was ordered and the resolution was adopted.

Dawes from the Committee on Elections reported that in the contested election for the Sixth District, Georgia, that Christy having given aid to the rebellion was not entitled to the seat, and that Wempy, not having received the majority of the votes, is not entitled to the seat.

Paine, after discussion, moved to postpone the question till the third Tuesday in February.

The House took up the bill relating to pensions, which was discussed yesterday. Pending the discussion the morning hour expired and the bill went over.

The House went into Committee of the Whole.

The appropriation bill was laid aside on account of the illness of the Chairman, Col. Washburne.

The next bill on the calendar being the Indian appropriation bill, Maynard moved to lay it aside and take up the tariff bill. After discussion, this motion was rejected by 16 to 77, and the Committee proceeded to consider the Indian appropriation bill. The total sum appropriated was $2,132,760, being over $1,500,000 less than last year. After considerable discussion about the general Indian system, the committee rose without disposing of the bill.

Roots moved to add two members to the Pacific Railroad Committee, to enable the reconstructed States to be represented. Referred to the Committee on Rules.

Boutwell said that on to-morrow he would move the previous question on the Constitutional Amendment. He also proposed that speeches to-morrow be limited to twenty minutes each. Eldridge objected.

The House took a recess, no quorum being present.

The evening session was devoted to general debate on the Constitutional amendment.

At executive session to day all the nominations were passed over, there being none on the list which the Senate thought required immediate action.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—In the Senate the President presented the credentials of Zach Chandler as Senator elect from Michigan.

Frelinghuysen presented a memorial from Dr. McCosh, President of Princeton College, asking an appropriation to enable them to take observations of the solar eclipse of August next.

Sumner presented a petition from the National Executive Committee of colored citizens, for the passing of a bill to secure the application of the homestead laws to certain lands in the lately rebellious States, for the benefit of colored persons. Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

The President submitted a message from the House with the McGarragan claim. Morton moved to refer the bill for the relief of McGarragan to the Judiciary Committee, but after discussion he withdrew the motion and it was referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims.

Harlan introduced a bill at the request of friends to aid the construction of the Memphis and El Paso Pacific Railroad of Texas, from the Mississippi River to the Pacific ocean. Referred to the Committee on Pacific Railroads.

In the House, Beaman, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported the postoffice appropriation bill. Referred to Committee of the Whole and made special order for Tuesday next.

Cullom offered a resolution requesting the President to furnish information whether the people of Hayti and San Domingo desire annexation to the United States.

The report of the select committee on the New York election frauds came up for action. After some discussion the House resumed consideration of the Constitutional amendment.

Kelly advocated the bill.

Shellabarger spoke in favor of his substitute, the distinction being that the substitute allows disfranchisement of those who had engaged in the rebellion, while the original resolution would allow the establishment of property or educational qualification.

Butler opposed the substitute offered by Bingham.

Pile spoke in favor of the amendment and the bill.

Schofield also made an argument in favor of the pending measures and against Bingham's amendment. Boutwell proposed to alter the amendment so as to forbid a property or educational qualification as well as the distinction as to race or color. After further discussion, Boutwell offered an amendment providing against any educational or property test.

Bingham argued against this amendment on the ground that religious or other tests might be established under it.

After discussion of this point by a number of members, the previous question on its adoption was ordered and the amendment was rejected by a division of the House, 44 to [illegible].

Bingham then moved an amendment providing against any denial of the franchise subject to such registration laws as a State may adopt, except to citizens who may engage in rebellion or who have been in rebellion or shall be convicted of treason or other infamous crime.

Shellabarger offered a substitute known as the [illegible] measure, being the one agreed upon by the Republican members from Ohio, except Bingham.

[illegible] moved to lay the bill and amendments on the table. Without acting on this motion the House adjourned.

The Senate resumed consideration of the order of the day, the proposed Constitutional Amendment.

[illegible] argued against it, insisting that the power to regulate suffrage was by the Constitution, [illegible] the Republican form of Government [illegible] State.

[illegible] moved to strike out the words [illegible] race, color, etc., and insert [illegible] equal [illegible]

[illegible] from Committee on Representative Reform, reported [illegible] amendments, a joint resolution [illegible] yesterday, for a Constitutional amendment compelling the choice of Presidential Electors directly by the people. [illegible] a brief speech.

The Senate took up a bill for a reduction of [illegible] which after the adoption of [illegible] providing against the [illegible] as presently passed.

[illegible] from the Appropriation Committee, [illegible] necessary legislation [illegible] passed.

[illegible] from the Committee on the Judiciary, reported [illegible] the bill [illegible] the [illegible] was [illegible] the House [illegible] remitting penalties where through inadvertence instruments have been improperly stamped.

Van Winkle, from the Committee on Pensions, reported unfavorably on the joint resolution granting a pension to Mrs. Lincoln.

Morrill, reported from the Committee on Appropriations the consular and diplomatic appropriation bills, with amendments, in which the provision consolidating various Central and South American missions, is stricken out.

In the House, on the 30th, Schenck reported a bill, which passed, allowing deputy collectors or assistant assessors who have performed the duties of collectors or assessors, on account of the suspension or illness of those officers, to receive their compensation, except in cases where the collector or assessor had already received compensation for the same period.

On motion of Boutwell, the morning hour was dispensed for this day, and the Constitutional amendment came up.

The pending question, on motion of Burns to table the whole subject, was rejected.

Boutwell moved the previous question, which was seconded. The question was first taken on Shellabarger's amendment, which was rejected: ayes 61, noes 127. The Democrats all voted for the amendment in the first instance, but many changed their votes to the negative.

Bingham's amendment was also rejected: 2[illegible] to 1[illegible]. The joint resolution was then ordered, engrossed and read a third time, when the resolution passed by the necessary two thirds vote: 150 to 42, the Speaker voting in the affirmative. The amendment proposed, is as follows:

Section 1. The right of any citizen of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by reason of race or previous slavery of any citizen or any class of citizens.

Section 2. The Congress shall have power to enforce by appropriate legislation the provisions of this article.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole, resuming the consideration of the Indian appropriation bill.

After an hour spent in the consideration of the bill, it was laid aside.

The committee then rose and the House passed the Senate bill relative to the confirmation of titles to land in Arizona and adjourned.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The Senate to day called up the motion to reconsider the vote refusing the use of the Rotunda for the inauguration festivities. After discussion, the Senate refused to reconsider by 21 to 29.

Morrill moved to postpone the regular order and take up the pressing appropriation bills. Agreed to. Harlan offered a resolution which was adopted, asking the Secretary of Interior to inform the Senate what quantity of public lands have been granted in aid of the construction of railroads and other public improvements.

The pension bill was considered and, with amendments, reported from the committee, reducing the appropriations in the bill and making appropriations for the support of the military, all of which were considered and passed. The appropriation bill was taken up and the amendments reported by the committee were adopted. Several minor amendments were offered and adopted. Nye moved an appropriation of $50,000 for the improvement of Midway Island in the Pacific. It was finally adopted and the bill passed.

Morton introduced a bill to enable the people of Montana to form a Constitution and State Government for the admission of that Territory as a State into the Union. The death of Finney, member of the House from Pennsylvania, was announced, and the Senate adjourned.

Washington News.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The Army Appropriation bill contains an item of $1,000,000 for repairs and improvement of the armory at Rock Island, half of which amount is to be devoted to the construction of a bridge connecting Rock Island with the cities of Rock Island and Davenport. The total army appropriations are $10,000,000 greater than last year.

The Tribune's Washington special says that after more than an hour's discussion, yesterday, the Senate decided by a good majority that the indefinite postponement at the session, of the McGarrahan bill did not kill the bill. Accordingly the Senate sent to the House for documents in the case.

A writ was issued against Judge Underwood returned on Friday next. The application is signed by the Attorney General, who says that Judge Underwood discharged several persons convicted and sentenced for murder and arson, thus acting contrary to the laws of Virginia.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—The Tribune's special says that Senator Conness continued the defense of himself, to day, against a supposed imputation of certain Senators that his letter to the Land Commissioner, regarding the McGarrahan case, was written for the interest of a California mining company. He grew warm in his speech, and closed by pronouncing that what Fessenden had said was false. After the close of his speech, he added, "that's it, sir." Fessenden replied to Conness, and cut him through and through with some of the keenest sentences lately heard in the Senate Chamber.

The Judiciary Committee are at work on a bill which will add one Justice to the Supreme Court Bench and makes six a quorum, and authorizes the appointment of Circuit Judges to each of the nine existing Judicial Circuits, with the same powers and jurisdiction therein as the Supreme Justices allotted to these Circuits.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—The Herald has the following communication, signed "W.":

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Seeing contradictory statements furnished regarding the fact or other*wise of an order having been issued from the* War Department to Gen. Banks, shortly after the fall of Vicksburg, directing him to relieve Grant, I have to state the facts of the case and thus settle this much vexed question. While Gen. Grant was operating in front of Vicksburg, I was employed as clerk in Secretary Stanton's office in the War Department. Stanton wrote two orders, directing me to take two copies, one for telegraphing and one for filing. The first of these orders was addressed to Gen. Banks, directing him to proceed at once to Vicksburg and relieve Gen. Grant. The second order was addressed to Grant, directing him to turn over his command to Gen. Banks upon the arrival of the latter, who had been ordered to relieve him. I don't pretend to have the wording of these orders, but have given, however, their exact substance. They should be on file in the War Department, unless they have since been destroyed. I will state further that copies of these orders to be transmitted by telegraph were sent to the War Department telegraph office by order of Secretary Stanton. These copies should be on file in the latter office.
